Obituary - Ann Williams

Highly respected long-time HAGAS member Ann Williams passed away on Saturday 13 February. Ann joined in 1989 as a painting student with Trent Duffy and worked tirelessly for many years in roles such as social co-ordinator, committee member, club secretary, painting enrolment officer.

Most recently Ann was the driving force behind the publishing of the club history in 2006 to celebrate our 40th Anniversary.

Ann will be sadly missed and we extend our deepest sympathies to her husband, Allan Williams and family.

A Touch of Morska

Jeanne Palmer, a member of HAGAS attending Murray Marks class, had a very interesting exhibition of her work held at the café Morska Vila on the Esplanade at Henley Beach in late November. More than 70 people attended to see the exhibition opened by Gerhard Praehauser of Vienna Lights.

Jeanne paints in acrylics and her work depicts the landscape around her with people and beach scenes. Her paintings are modern and vibrant in colour. Her subjects are varied from pet portraits to friends having coffee around the table.

Jeanne's imagination is never ending as the work she does shows this in each painting. Her style is unique to her and she never seems to run out of ideas! She is so keen about her work that she paints endlessly, sometimes into the wee small hours of the morning.

Can you paint with oils on paper?

Unprotected paper absorbs the oil and can bleed out of the intended areas. However, it is simple to prime ordinary paper with acrylic paint or gesso as you would a canvas. There are also oil sketch papers available in the art supply shops. These are an excellent alternative for oil painting exercises / experimenting, as they are inexpensive and easily stored.

Limit your Palette

Using a vast range of colours in a painting is not a recipe for success. You're not making fruit cake! A limited palette is more likely to give an overall unity to a painting. You'll be (pleasantly) surprised by how much tonal variation can be created by a few colours, and the range of colours you can mix with them.

Gerhard Ritter Demo

The demonstration by Gerhard Ritter in December 2009 was well attended by some 50 members. Gerhard expertly executed a portrait of our President Peter McLay, dressed as Santa Claus – although looking at the photos it could easily have been a self portrait!
